At six o'clock the entire company will go to the home of Prof. and Mrs. George H. Colbert where the losing side will serve lunch.

INFORMATION ON MAKING OF RED CROSS ARTICLES.

ARE NEEDED AT ONCE

Red Cross Emphasizes the Necessity for Warm Knitted Articles for Men in Europe.

A call for help has come from the battle front in France on behalf of American soldiers ,the soldiers of their Allies and of the destitute civilians of devastated Belgium and Northern France. Six million warm, knitted woolen articles are needed to help them get through the winter. The appeal has come to the American Red Cross at Washington, and it specifies 1,500,000 each of sweaters, mufflers and socks.

The call is official. Major Grayson M. P. Murphy of General Pershing's staff, the Red Cross Commissioner for Europe, who knows better (perhaps than any other man just how badly these things are needed, has cabled for them.

From Director John J. O'Connor of the Central Division of the Red Cross with headquarters at Chicago, the call went forth to 1,081 chapters in the Central States, urging the members to answer the cry. The chapters called on the Red Cross Supply Service for yarn, knitting needles, and full instructions for the knitting. In the meantime, knitting committees were formed in the chapters, and volunteers called for.

The Supply Service was forced to ask some chapters to buy their yarn and needles in the local markets, or from whatever source they could most quickly get them. The Supply Service had not on hand enough goods to fill such an unprecedented demand on such short notice. Washington could not even supply, as rapidly as they were needed, the printed instructions for the knitting, and the newspapers were called on to print the directions so that every knitter might have a copy.

But the work must be hurried. "They must come before cold weather," cabled Major Murphy. That means that the entire 6,000,000 articles must be completed in the shortest possible time, and sent to France. The chapters were urged to use every possible minute, and to call on every woman and girl who can knit, whether or not she is a Red Cross member, and ask her to help in the work.

The West Flanders front also carried out a successful trench raid south of Lens in the Ypres section. The German artillery was very active during the night. Better weather is now prevailing over some parts of the British front, enabling airmen to resume attacks against the' military works behind the German lines.

This call for knitted articles is but one phase of the work of relief which the American Red Cross must carry on. Washington has repeatedly warned the chapters that the knitting must not be permitted to stop or delay the making of surgical supplies—wound dressings, splints, bandages, operating garments and the thousands of other things which surgeons and nurses must have when they wait on the wounded These must be kept flowing in a never-ending stream, increasing in volume as our own men near the front. The knitting is merely an "extra rush order" in addition to everything else the Red Cross has undertaken to do.

The American soldiers are furnished with uniforms and overcoats and shoes and everything that the army regulations call for. The knitted articles are for their extra comfort — and in the case of the refugee civilians, are absolute necessities.

Every reader of this article is urged to get a supply of yarn and needles, and knit—or have someone else knit—as many of these articles as possible and as quickly as possible. The knitted goods should be sent by the knitters of the Central Division to the nearest Red Cross chapter, which will send them with all speed to the Red Cross Supply Service, Wakem & McLaughlin Warehouse, 225 East Illinois street, Chicago. In case the knitter cannot get in touch with a Red Cross Chapter, she may send the goods direct to the warehouse.

Here are the official directions for knitting the sweater, mufflers, socks and wristlets—and remember, Major Murphy says, "they must come before cold weather."

Grandmother's Botanic Medicine.

In every pioneer home the botanic recipes of our grandmothers for the treatment of disease were wonderfully dependable. Every fall she gathered her various herbs: thoroughwort, camomile, sage, pennyroyal, wormwood, rue, etc. It is interesting to note that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the most successful remedy for female ills we have was originally prepared for home use from one of these botanic recipes, and the demand for this famous medicine has grown until over 350,000 pounds of roots and herbs are used annually in its preparation. It will well repay any woman who suffers from female ills to give this famous medicine a trial.

M'NAMEE ON THE PROGRAM

Hopkins Pastor to Deliver Fraternal Message at the South M. E. Church Conference.

Rev. H. McNamee pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Hopkins, will represent the Missouri Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church and deliver the fraternal message at the conference of the M. E. Church, South, in Richmond, Mo., which will open tomorrow. This is the one hundred and first session of this conference. The Rev. R. C. Holliday, pastor of the M. E. church, South, of this city, left for Richmond this morning.

Bishop E. R. Hendrix of Kansas City, who has presided at the last three sessions, will again occupy the chair.

Five clerical and five lay delegates will be elected at this meeting to the general conference, which will be held in Atlanta, Ga., in May, 1918. Few memorials will be sent to the general conference as it is thought the latter will enact no new laws nor is it expected to modify old legislation very extensively.

Everything will be subordinated to the question of Methodist unification. In the consummation of the Methodist union the United Methodist church will have a new constitution, embodying much needed legislation, adapted to the work of the church in this modern age with its complex religious and social problems and a more comprehensive work in education, missions, evangelism and social service.

Members of the commission on unification believe that at the next session of the commissioners at Savannah, Ga. in January, 1918, the plan for unification will be ready for ratification at the next session of the general conference. A joint session of the two general conferences has been suggested for Baltimore, the birthplace of American Methodist, in 1918 or 1920, at the latest.

Nests on the Water.

It is almost unthinkable that a bird should build a nest on the water. Yet that is exactly what the grebes always do. With reeds, grass and plant stems the grebe makes a regular floating island, somewhat hollowed out on top, usually near the open water of a marshy or reedy lake. We have several kinds of grebes, but their nests are much alike, sometimes moored to the reeds, but usually floating freely on the water.—St. Nicholas.

The Deacon's Philosophy.

No one ever gets to heaven before his time, and to most of us it's a long time coming.

The good Lord helps us to hold our ground while the old world's turning to the brighter side, but we seldom credit Providence with that good work.

Ever stop to think that there are just storms enough in life to make the rainbows we sigh for?—Atlanta Constitution.

Just a Guess.

"What's all that pounding in the other room?" questioned a drummer while he was waiting to see the buyer.

How It Happened.

"How did you happen to quit the stock market?"

"Well, my margin got very narrow and I sort of slipped off!"—The Lamb.
